Chapter 7: China and Shinar

Right: Lamassu, Assyrian Empire, Nineveh, Iraq

Lamassu (or Shedu) were winged bulls, or winged human-headed bulls, with the head of a bearded man. Lamassu protectors, lamassu guardians, or lamassu sentinels were colossal statues in the Assyrian culture.

In Chinese, "Shinar" means "of, relating to the sky", and so the Chinese Oxford English Dictionary is defined as one of the seven heavens. Shinar is also the name of the Sumerian city of Ur of the Chaldees, and the land of Shinar (Sumer) is the city of Shinar where Jacob travelled to the land of the Chaldeans (Gen 11:2; Gen 10:10). Archaeologists, both Chinese and Western, have found that the Sumerian language, culture, and cuneiform writing system appeared in Sumer without any precedent, and that the Sumerian culture was "complete and perfect" and that the civilization "Ur-Eridu" in Sumer was the first and oldest civilization in the world. The Sumerian culture was also the most "Chinese" of all the ancient civilizations in the world. The organization of the advanced culture from Shinar to China and to Southeast Asia forms a recognizable structure. 5000 BC Ur-Eridu in Sumer, 3000 BC Shinar, 2000 BC Xia Dynasty, 1000 BC Zhou Dynasty, 500 BC Qin Dynasty, 200 BC Han Dynasty, 0 AD Jesus Christ, 500 AD Tang Dynasty, 1000 AD Sung Dynasty, 1500 AD Ming Dynasty, 2000 AD Mao Dynasty. Ur-Eridu in Sumer is the "root" of the ancient civilization, and the Chinese culture is the "trunk" of the ancient civilization. The Chinese culture is the most "Sumerian" of all the ancient civilizations in the world. The Sumerian culture was the most "Chinese

2704 – 196 / 215 = 2299 BCE
(Synonyms of Shabbat by Gematria)

2299 – 2141 = 158 years
(Synonyms of Shabbat by difference)

56 + 9 + 15 + 56 = 25 = 141 years
(Synonyms of Shabbat by maximum single term, sum of 25)

(158 by 25 is the only way to express 158 as a product of two numbers both with one digit and both > 1 - we seek length. The death of Enoch at 2704 BCE appears to overtake, here.
